REIMS STILL HELD HEAVY ENEMY PRESSURE TOWARDS THE MARNE

LONDON, May 30.

The Germans, on the centre of their drive have penetrated about 20 miles.

The French and British are tenaciously defending the positions on the flanks.

On the Allied left the enemy has been unable to debouch from Soissons, but on the right he is within two miles of Reims.

The Germans claim to have taken 35,000 prisoners and much booty.

THE OFFICIAL REPORTS.

A French communiqué on Wednesday night stated: The battle assumed a particularly violent character on the left wing in the region of Soissons. We evacuated the town, of which we hold the exits. The battle is continuing west and south. In the centre, while we gave ground under pressure in the region of Loupierre, the Franco-British troops further east succeeded in maintaining their positions on the line of Bouilliet, Savigny, and Tilloy.

On the right the troops covering Reims fell back behind the Aisne and Marne canal to the north-west of the town.

A French communiqué issued on Thursday afternoon stated: The battle continued uninterrupted last night. We energetically held the western outskirts of Soissons, from which the enemy was unable to debouch despite repeated attempts.

Further south, extremely violent fighting occurred in the region of the Soissons-Hardecourt road, and on the Fere-en-Tardenois-Vailly front, where, supported by our reserves, we are resisting the enemy masses with untiring tenacity.

On the right the Franco-British troops on the Bouilliet and Chailly front, also south-west of Reims, broke all assaults and maintained their positions.

A French communiqué issued at midday on Thursday stated: The battle has been continued with undiminished violence on the whole front. Our troops, through their efforts towards Ville-en-Tardenois, prevented all enemy progress from there. Southward we solidly hold the left bank of the Aisne.

In the centre the intense struggle has not slackened. The enemy captured Fere-en-Tardenois and Vailly, and is multiplying his efforts towards Ville-en-Tardenois.

On the right, as well as north-west of Reims, we are holding on to our positions. Our armies participated in the battle with endurance and daring beyond all praise. The crews fought against an enemy air force which was most aggressive and numerous. Mowing low they machine-gunned enemy troops and carried out reconnaissance far into the enemy lines. They played an important part in maintaining communication.

FLANDERS FRONT.

Sir Douglas Haig, reporting at noon on Thursday, stated: We completely repulsed a slight attack on a strong point north-west of Poperinghe. We carried out a successful minor operation in the neighbourhood of Meric, improving our line slightly. A raid near Loon yielded prisoners.

Sir Douglas Haig reporting on Thursday night stated: The French on Wednesday night carried out a successful local counter-attack at Dierckens, improving their position. Reciprocal artillery fire prevails on the remainder of the front.

GERMAN STATEMENTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official report, received on Thursday, stated: Fighting activity frequently increased between the Yser and the Oise. There were some local infantry engagements.

The Crown Prince continues his successful attack. We gained ground northward of the Aisne, after hard fighting at Crecy-au-Mont, Juvigny, and Cuffies. We captured Soissons.

Our uninterrupted attacks southward of the Vesle broke down the new French front which was in course of formation, throwing back the enemy across the line of the Vesle. We captured Fere-en-Tardenois, Braine, and Flines. Also extensive munition depots, tanks, hospitals, and an aeroplane, including aeroplanes.

Our total prisoners now number over 35,000. Tremendous booty, including railway guns, heavy machine guns, and captured at the large depots of Soissons, Braine, and Flines. Also extensive munition depots, tanks, hospitals, and an aeroplane, including aeroplanes.

In the past three days we have brought down 38 enemy aeroplanes.

A German official report late on Thursday stated: Southward of Fere-en-Tardenois we are fighting our way towards the Marne.

HEROIC BRITISH DIVISIONS.

A message from Paris says that stories of the heroic sacrifice of four British divisions on the Flanders front, the 2nd, 25th, and 26th had been sent to Berry-au-Bac to undergo a complete rest after their long engagement in the Flanders, where they were held in reserve. The Crown Prince's forces broke suddenly upon the exhausted divisions, who were swarmed with gas, shelled by squadrons of tanks, and assaulted by British divisions.

The British withstood the crushing superiority without flinching.

Moving back foot by foot, they held the heights entrusted to their keeping. They twice threw back the assaulting waves, and still held on to the heights after eight hours of hand-to-hand fighting and machine-gun fire. The British divisions were held in reserve, and the Crown Prince's forces broke suddenly upon the exhausted divisions, who were swarmed with gas, shelled by squadrons of tanks, and assaulted by British divisions.

FACING TANKS AND GAS.

Mr. Ferris, correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle," telegraphed from the Flanders front on Tuesday: The British divisions in the Aisne have been the brunt of one of the fiercest assaults on the Aisne front on Tuesday. Portion of a British brigade, comprising the 2nd, 25th, and 26th divisions, were engaged in the fighting. The British divisions were held in reserve, and the Crown Prince's forces broke suddenly upon the exhausted divisions, who were swarmed with gas, shelled by squadrons of tanks, and assaulted by British divisions.

AMERICAN SUCCESS.

(OFFICIAL COMMONWEALTH CORRESPONDENT.)

During the severe fighting of the last two months the Americans appeared in many places behind the front almost unnoted. The general concern for the fighting troops fixed on the battlefields. It was well known that the American troops were present, and even actively fighting on some parts of the line. Their troops in the line were only a small representation of the great bodies in reserve, unceasingly training and gradually moving to increasing numbers nearer the front.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS.

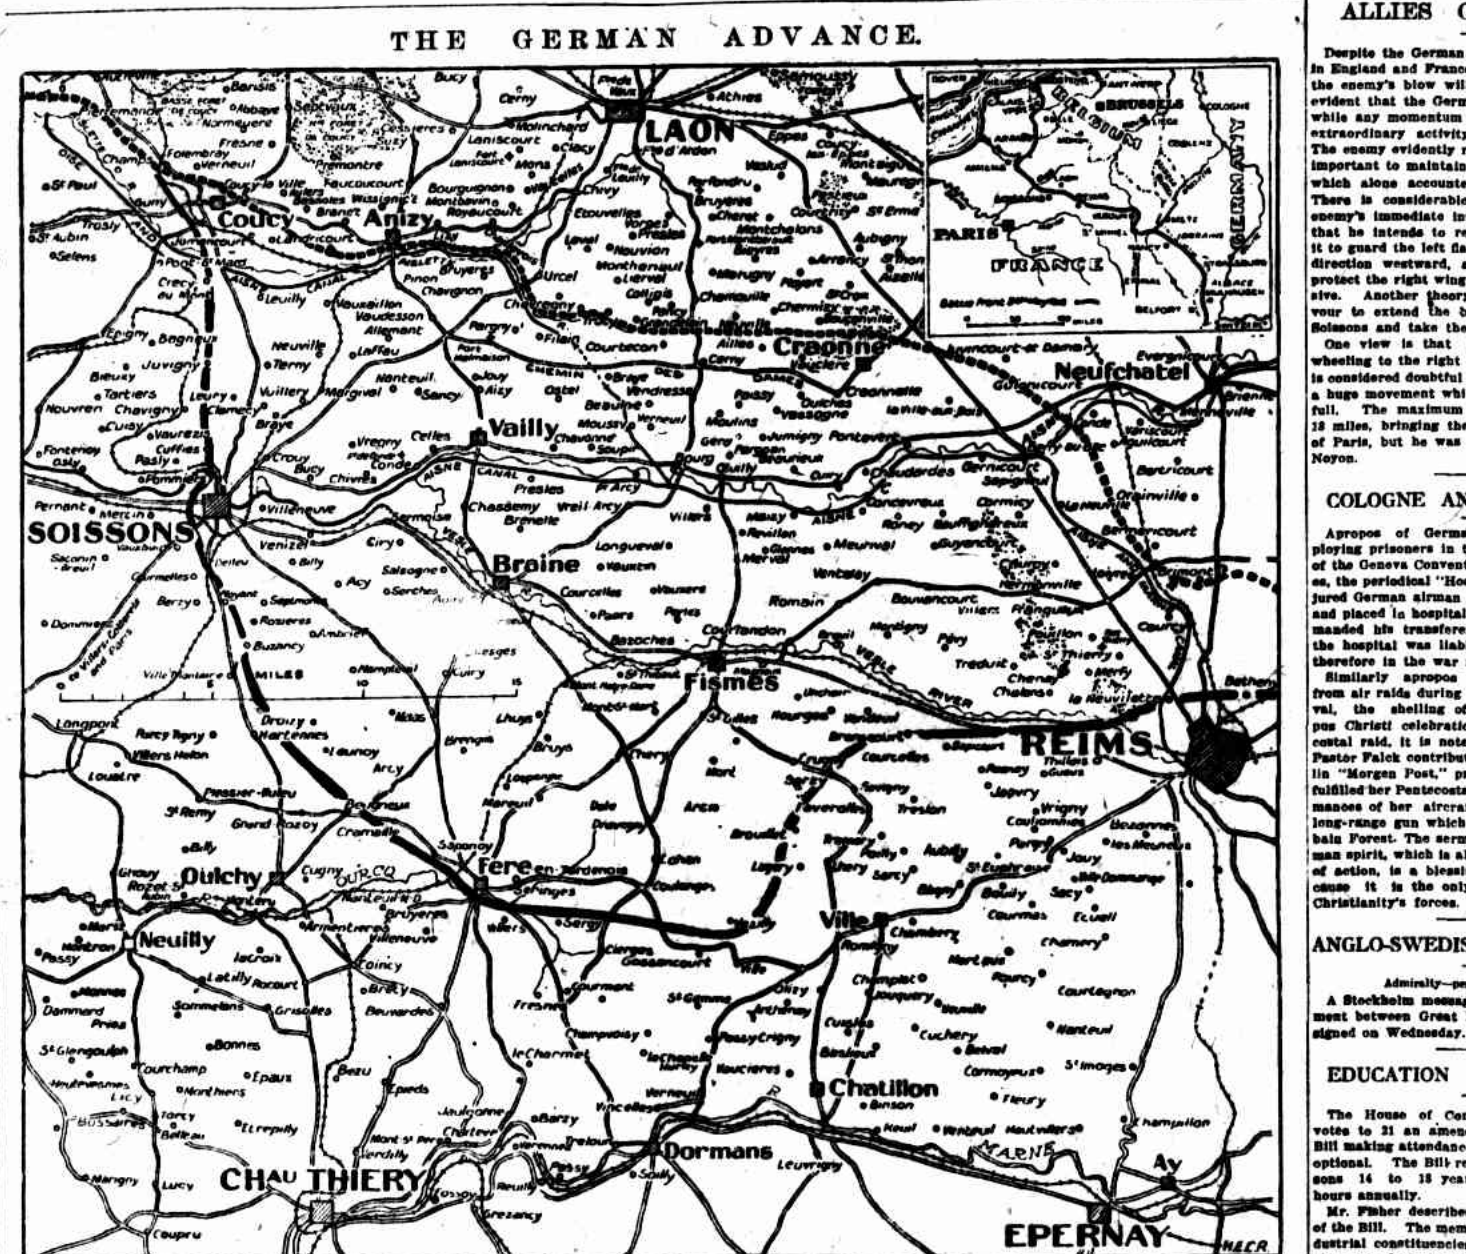

It is reported that Parliament is likely to discuss again the exchange of prisoners before the delegates meet. The exchange of prisoners is likely to be discussed.

EMPEROR WATCHES BATTLE.

An Amsterdam report says the German Emperor watched the Aisne battle from Crouan. The Emperor watched the Aisne battle from Crouan.

ARCTIC EXPLORATION.

Captain Amundsen is sailing for the Arctic in July, and expects to be absent three years. Captain Amundsen is sailing for the Arctic in July, and expects to be absent three years.

The dotted line represents the approximate position of the front prior to the commencement of the enemy's latest offensive against the heights above the Aisne. The heavy black line indicates the front reached by the enemy as indicated in cablegrams received up to the time the map was prepared last night. This line is by no means complete, but represents the approximate extent of the enemy's advance. The small inset shows the whole Western line prior to the latest offensive between Soissons and Reims.

THE TAKING OF SOISSONS.

Mr. G. H. Ferris, describing how the storm burst upon the Aisne, says: At midnight on Sunday all was quiet at Soissons. The enemy was ten miles away. A few British divisions were settled down to sleep. Suddenly they were aroused by a bombardment unequalled in intensity. During Monday 1200 shells were hurled at the town. The bombardment continued on Tuesday, when a large part of the town was on fire. The enemy had reached the Chateau-Thierry front and made a direct power.

COLOGNE'S RESPIRE.

There is much indignation over the British agreement to spare Cologne for the Corpus Christi festival, especially as the Germans have resumed the shelling of Paris. The "Daily Express" is a leading article: "It is almost incredible that the Germans had the effrontery to request the British Government, through the Pope, to grant Rhine cities immunity from air raids on Corpus Christi Day. But it is much more amazing that the British Government should have acquiesced."

JAPAN AND AUSTRALIA.

GERMANY'S CLUMSY ADVICE.

The "Vostokische Zeitung" advises Japan to see the error of her ways, and says: "Japan is making a dangerous mistake in forcing Germany to quit China. She will seriously need German sympathy and support after the war against the ever-daring claims of the Anglo-Japanese. Japan's policy in bounding Germany settlers and merchants out of China directly encourages them to go to Australia, which, under their powerful interest, would be lost to Japan as a future colony. If Japan wants only to further German rights in China, she should not force Germany to quit China. She should let Japan's way to the Australian continent, which Japan covets."
